

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (March 20, 2022) – Free fares on all Port Authority vehicles will continue through the end of service next Sunday, March 27.

“As many of us have experienced over the last week, service reliability remains an ongoing issue,” said Port Authority CEO Katharine Kelleman. “Fortunately, it has already begun to improve as more and more employees get vaccinated and become eligible to return to work.”

Employees who show proof that they are fully vaccinated are permitted to return to work for their next scheduled shift. Additionally, it is anticipated that employees who show proof that they are partially vaccinated at their upcoming disciplinary hearings will be permitted to return to work on a 30-day probationary period pending full vaccination.

More than 90 percent of Port Authority’s 2,600 employees are at least partially vaccinated.
