

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (April 18, 2020) - A sixth Port Authority employee has tested positive for COVID-19.

The employee works in maintenance at the Authority's garage in West Mifflin. They last worked on Monday, April 13, and has been in self-quarantine at home since then.

Since this is the second West Mifflin maintenance employee to test positive in the last two days, Port Authority will move its maintenance team at this location to a holiday work schedule this weekend while an outside company is brought in to complete a deep clean of the entire facility.

Transit service will not be impacted.

Port Authority continues to follow the protocols and guidance issued by public health authorities in addressing potential and confirmed COVID-19 cases.

The Authority has more than 2,600 employees, including 1,300 operators and 800 mechanics. As of Friday, Port Authority had 59 employees being held out of work pending COVID-19 testing.
