

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (February 1, 2023) - Pittsburgh Regional Transit will host conversations with the community regarding two new potential development opportunities along the Martin Luther King Jr. East Busway.

The meetings will focus on constructing a new transit station at Brushton Avenue in Homewood and moving the existing station in Wilkinsburg to a location closer to the borough's business district.

The first meeting will be held online from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, February 8. To participate, visit www.rideprt.org/boteb

The second meeting will be held in-person from 4 to 7 p.m. on Thursday, February 9 at the Wilkinsburg Train Station located at 901 Hay Street. Attendees can arrive at any time to view and discuss the proposals with PRT staff.

Those attending either meeting will have an opportunity to review and weigh in on two different design concepts for each station.
